Get lost driving with an American tourist somewhere along the Lurgan back roads.

Slip past a peace wall in the heart of Belfast.

Spend the night at a hostel full of mythical characters.

Reflections and Echoes is Northern Ireland with an American twist.

The Armagh Project =

Six American Students write in Northern Ireland for a month-long residency & cultural immersion.

The Result =

Six 10-minute plays & four poems reflecting their experiences of the people, history, culture, myth & politics of the region temporarily called home.

Supported by University of Baltimore and Maryland Irish Festival.
